Terminations of Analysis. Freud. Lacan.

featuring Gabriela Zorzutti, Ph.D.

Description:

The evening will be dedicated to presenting and elucidating the differences around termination of analysis between Freud and Lacan.

The hypothesis is that termination has an important impact on the formation of analyst, and also in the politics of analysis, institutional and beyond.

Discussion from the audience will be encouraged.

This topic will be further developed in her Continuing Ed course on the same topic, planned for the next Spring Semester.

Objectives:

1. Explain the different ways of termination an analysis can have.
2. Describe the relationship between termination and formation of analysis.
3. Explain the link between termination and the ethics of the analyst.
