

THE DENVER PSYCHOANALYTIC SOCIETY INVITES YOU TO AN EVENING SALON

Tuesday, April 9, 2019
7:15-9:00 PM

“The Uncanny Likeness of Oneself:
Aggression and Competition within the Female-Feminine Psychoanalytic Couple” with Lynne Gillick, Ph.D.

The Salon Program

The program is designed to share basic and applied psychoanalytic principles, along with a time for refreshments and interaction. These informal gatherings cover psychoanalytically and psychodynamically-oriented topics of general interest. This format provides an opportunity for you to explore your interest in psychoanalysis and/or psychodynamic psychotherapy, meet members of the analytic community, and enjoy the thinking and the company of others who share your clinical interest.

Free of charge

Since group size is limited, we ask that you register on the events page of our website.

If your RSVP changes, please notify the office so we can invite those on the wait-list.

Address given upon Registration

This program is for:
a) Prospective analytic candidates and psychodynamic psychotherapy students

b) Mental health professionals who have a curiosity about or special interest in psychoanalysis or psychodynamic psychotherapy.
