

Sometimes students:

- ◆ Feel sad, worried or scared for reasons they cannot explain
- ◆ Show behavior that is out of control and cannot express their feelings in other ways
- ◆ Need help making friends
- ◆ Act strangely or in ways that their teachers and parents do not understand

Sometimes teachers:

- ◆ Want to learn more about how to respond to difficult children and their parents
- ◆ Want to talk to someone who can listen to the challenges of their work

Sometimes principals, heads of school and preschool directors:

- ◆ Want in-services for staff or support for parent programs
- ◆ Want to problem solve or brainstorm with someone familiar with school systems and child development

Sometimes parents:

- ◆ Want to learn more about emotional development
- ◆ Wonder how to help their children
- ◆ Feel frustrated when their children do not respond to their attempts to help

Affiliations

Donations

Donations help support the Society's mission to provide relevant information, programs and events.

Donations can be made online at www.denverpsychoanalytic.org/Donate or on our Facebook page. Donations by check and made payable to The Denver Psychoanalytic Society Fund, can be mailed to the address in the Contact Us section below.

Mission

The Denver Psychoanalytic Society is a multipurpose organization whose goals include advancing professional education and sponsoring and disseminating the results of research in psychoanalysis and related disciplines.

Our affiliate, the Denver Institute for Psychoanalysis, offers training in psychoanalysis and psychodynamic psychotherapy. To learn more, go to our combined website listed below.

Contact Us

Denver Psychoanalytic Society
Mail Stop F546
1890 N. Revere Ct.
Aurora, CO 80045
Phone: 303-724-2666
Fax: 303-724-2668

Website: www.denverpsychoanalytic.org
E-mail: office@denverpsychoanalytic.org

SCHOOL OUTREACH SERVICE

Consultation with Denver Metro Area Schools

- ◆ Meeting with principals, heads of schools and preschool directors.
- ◆ Facilitating emotional growth and development for preschoolers and school-aged children.

SCHOOL OUTREACH SERVICE

In 2006, the Denver Psychoanalytic Society (DPS) began the School Outreach Service. We are experienced mental health professionals trained in psychological development, the treatment of children and work with their parents, as well as community consultation.

We work with principals, heads of school and preschool directors to learn more about their programs, brainstorm together and respond to their needs and wishes so we can be of service.

Services Provided

- ◆ Education: Courses and discussion groups on emotional growth and development.
- ◆ Consultation: Meeting with principals, heads of school and preschool directors as well as teachers and parents to help children develop their full potential.

Topics have included:

- ◆ Emotional development for preschoolers, school-aged children and adolescents
- ◆ Self-esteem
- ◆ Coping with aggression, separation or independence
- ◆ Promoting healthy transitions.

Cost of Service

Contributions are always welcome. Donations may be made on our website, through Facebook or by mailing a check. See back for details.

For public schools and nonprofit programs, we provide a pro bono, volunteer community service as part of our nonprofit mission. Grants to the Denver Psychoanalytic Society or the Denver Institute for Psychoanalysis cover some of our pro bono services.

Contact

For more information, please contact Shoshana Shapiro Adler, Ph.D., Chair of the School Consultation Committee at (303) 721-7939.